- Sequenced in chronological order with extended captions, the book covers many of the major events and people that shaped the twentieth century
- Now available in an affordable paperback format

Robert Capa, born in Hungary, was known for his extreme bravery, amazing eye, and irresistible charm. He was a co-founder of the Magnum cooperative picture agency and died in 1954 after stepping on a landmine while on assignment in Indochina. His life and work were inextricably interlinked, and both have had a marked influence on generations of photographers. Richard Whelan is an outstanding authority on Capa's life and work. He is a New York-based independent cultural historian and the author of several books, including acclaimed biographies of Robert Capa and Alfred Stieglitz.
